Information on PILT Class Action Lawsuit

The following message is provided by the law firm appointed Class Counsel in a class action lawsuit to recover federal Payments in Lieu of Taxes (PILT) underpayments for fiscal years 2015-2017. The message includes additional information about the lawsuit for your review.

You most likely have heard about the Kane County v. United States class action lawsuit to recover PILT underpayments for fiscal years 2015 through 2017. My law firm has been appointed Class Counsel by the Court of Federal Claims.

The Court has ruled that the United States is liable to 1,953 counties and other local governments that were underpaid in those years, and has certified them as a Class. Of this total, 87 are in Texas.

Please note: The Court of Federal Claims requires Class Members to affirmatively "opt in" to a class action lawsuit if they wish to participate—unlike other courts, where a class member is included in the lawsuit unless it affirmatively takes action to "opt out." With the assistance and support of the National Association of Counties (NACo), over 650 local governments have already opted into the Kane County class action lawsuit.

- There is an article about the lawsuit on NACo's website.
- A recording of the June 19 NACo-sponsored telephone conference discussing the lawsuit is also linked on NACo's website.
- The official Class Action Notice mailed to all Class Members can be read or downloaded here: (the link is at the bottom of the webpage). There are also FAQs, Court documents, and other information on the webpage.

To opt in, all a county or other local government must do is fill out and submit a Class Action Opt-In Notice Form—a simple form that takes no more than 5 minutes to complete—no later than September 14, 2018. A local government may fill out and submit the Form via the internet directly from that webpage, or download as UPS or FedEx.

Here are the local governments in Texas that were underpaid in FYs 2015 - 2017; the dollar amount the federal government owes each one (before deducting a pro rata share of attorney's fees and expenses); and whether each has or has not opted into the lawsuit as of this writing: As soon as the opt-in period has ended, Class Counsel will file a motion asking the Court to award it attorney's fees and expenses. As explained in the June 19 NACo telephone conference, Class Counsel will ask for one-third (33.3%) of the amounts recovered on behalf of all Class Members who opted in as its attorney's fees, plus (b) its actual out-of-pocket expenses—for filing fees, costs of printing and mailing the Class Notice, and the like (expenses should not exceed a small fraction of 1% of the amounts recovered).

^{ &}quot;1" above indicates that a county has already opted in as of Aug. 24

Each Class Member who opts in will receive a notice when the motion is filed, and will have the opportunity to object to Class Counsel's request if it wishes to do so. Whether or not objections are filed, the Court will independently determine what fees are reasonable and fair, and what expenses were reasonable and necessary. Whatever the Court awards, it is almost certain to be a small fraction of the cost any county would have incurred to recover its underpayment in an individual lawsuit. Lower litigation costs for each Class Member is a principal advantage of a class action lawsuit.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q.1. If I join the lawsuit, how much money can I expect to receive?

A.1. The underpayment amount varies, depending upon (a) each government's PILT entitlement, calculated by the formula in the PILT Act, and (b) whether it received a PILT payment in one, two, or all three of fiscal years 2015 – 2017. Net recoveries are expected to range from a low of $100 or less, to a high of $130,000 or more.

Q.2. Why was I underpaid?

A.2. In fiscal years 2015 – 2017, the amount appropriated by Congress for PILT payments was insufficient to satisfy all statutory PILT obligations. The agency administering the PILT program, the Department of the Interior, is prohibited by law from spending more than Congress appropriates. So in fiscal years 2015 – 2017, Department of the Interior paid out the available funds on a pro-rata basis, but those payments were less than what each unit of local government was entitled to receive.

Q.3. Has Congress appropriated additional funds for fiscal years 2015 – 2017 PILT payments? If not, where will the money come from?

A.3. Congress has not made any additional appropriation for PILT obligations in fiscal years 2015 – 2017. But Congress has established by law a permanent, indefinite appropriation account called the Judgment Fund, to pay final money judgments against the United States. The Court's final judgment in the Lawsuit will be paid out of the Judgment Fund.

Q.4. Will joining the Lawsuit affect the PILT payments I receive in future years?

A.4. No. Future PILT payments will continue to be determined by the provisions of the PILT Act [subject to any future amendments or modifications made by Congress], and the funds made available by Congress for making those payments.

Q.5. The Notice I received speaks of "sequestration" of a portion of the fiscal year 2015 appropriation for PILT payments. What is that?

A.5. In the 2011 Budget Control Act, in an attempt to lower the deficit, Congress set annual spending caps for subsequent fiscal years. The budget Congress enacted for FY 2015 exceeded the cap for that year, and the U.S. Treasury was required to withhold, or "sequester," amounts exceeding that cap. The PILT appropriation for fiscal year 2015, already insufficient to make full PILT payments, was further reduced by this sequestration. Kane County did not seek to recover the additional underpayment resulting from sequestration because the Court of Federal Claims had ruled in an earlier lawsuit that units of local government are not entitled to recover that portion of PILT funds eliminated by sequestration.

Q.6. Does the method I choose for submitting the Class Action Opt-In Notice Form affect the deadline?

A.6. The deadline, September 14, 2018, remains the same, but the criteria for meeting that deadline differ slightly:

- Online: click "Submit" no later than 11:59 p.m. on September 14, 2018.
- First Class Mail: get it postmarked no later than 11:59 p.m. on September 14, 2018.
- Pre-paid Delivery Service: get it physically delivered to the designated address in Washington, D.C. no later than 5:30 p.m. EDT on September 14, 2018.

Q.7. What is a "pre-paid delivery service?"

A.7. Common examples are Federal Express (FedEx) and United Parcel Services (UPS), but you may use any similar courier or delivery service you wish so long as you pay the delivery fee up front (as opposed to the fee being due on delivery).

Q.8. Online submission of the Class Action Opt-In Notice Form calls for an "electronic signature." What is that?

A.8. A simple (as opposed to secure or encrypted) electronic signature is all that is required. A simple electronic signature is made by using a keyboard to enter "/s/" followed by your typed name on the signature line. For example, Class Counsel's electronic signature would appear as "/s/ Alan I. Saltman."

Q.9. Other class action notices I have seen say that I am included in the class action lawsuit unless I "opt out." Why do I have to "opt in" to be part of this Lawsuit?

A.9. The Rules of the United States Court of Federal Claims, unlike the rules of many other courts around the country, expressly require that you "opt into" any class action lawsuit pending in that Court if you wish to be included.

Q.10. Can the Court's final judgment in the Lawsuit be appealed?

A.10. Yes. The United States has 60 days from the date final judgment is entered to file an appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, in Washington, D.C. The rule of thumb is that it takes the Federal Circuit approximately one year to decide an appeal.

Q.11. Will there be any costs associated with joining the lawsuit, and if so, what are those costs?

A.11. Opting into the class action lawsuit costs nothing; nor will you be required to pay out-of-pocket any attorney's fees of Class Counsel, or related litigation expenses.

How, then, will Class Counsel be paid?

Class counsel will submit a request to the Court for its fees and expenses. Whatever fees and expenses the Court deems reasonable and awards will be deducted from the money obtained on behalf of the Class, and therefore reduce the amount you receive. In effect, if you opt in, you will—like every other local government who opts in—indirectly pay your pro rata share of Class Counsel's fees and expenses.

Q.12. Could attorney's fees and costs be awarded against those who opt in if the case is ultimately not successful?

A.12. No. A participant is at no risk of having to pay anything if the ultimate outcome is negative (an outcome which, at this point, would require a successful appeal by the government).

Pages 6+7
Not printed

Q.13. What attorney's fees and expenses will Class Counsel ask the Court to award?

A.13. As soon as the opt-in period has ended, Class Counsel will file a motion asking the Court to award (a) as attorney's fees, one-third (33.3%) of the amounts recovered on behalf of the Class Members who opted in, plus (b) actual out-of-pocket expenses-for filing fees, costs of printing and mailing the Class Notice and the like (expenses should not exceed a small fraction of 1% of the amounts recovered).

Each Class Member who opts in will receive a notice when the motion for fees and expenses is filed, and will have the opportunity to object if it wishes to do so. Whether or not objections are filed, the Court will independently determine what fees are reasonable and fair, and what expenses were reasonable and necessary.

Whatever the Court awards, it is virtually certain to be a fraction of the cost any county or governmental unit would have incurred to recover its underpayment in an individual lawsuit. Lower litigation costs for each Class Member is a principal advantage of a class action lawsuit.
